OVER HILL AND DOWN DALE was the course these riders took on their mountain bikes last weekend. The 15 participants in the Maine Lung Association's first Mountain Bike Trek were out on area snowmobile and biking trails both Saturday and Sunday. The group was made up of both local riders as well as those from out-of-town, with some coming from as far as Portland. The rides included a route to Mt. Abram over the Rabbit Road and a climb to Twin

Bridges, on the Sunday River. The point of the exercise was to raise money—through pledges—for the Maine Lung Association. Organizers said they raised about $2,000. They hope the Mountain Bike Trek will become as popular as their Sunday River to the Sea bike ride, held each June, from Sunday River Ski Resort to Rockland. The fundraiser was co-sponsored by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce.

Officials blame bad attitude of class for falling test scores

Four years ago, when this year's graduating seniors at Telstar Regional High School were 8th-graders in the middle school, they took a state-mandated test to measure their level of academic achievement in six basic areas (see box on testing results). Last year, as high school juniors, they took the 11th-grade version of the same test.

A review of the results of the two rounds of testing strongly suggests that over the course of the class' three years at Telstar, its level of academic achievement deteriorated significantly relative to that of its peers in other Maine schools.

The 98-member 8th-grade class lost five of its top 10 students (four to Gould Academy), according to high school Principal Ted Davis, but that loss would account for only a small part of the overall drop-off.

Pearl Davis attributes much of the decline in the class' attitude toward school. "Classes run in cycles," he said, "and this one has been noted for its discipline problems. They just don't take school seriously."

The deterioration is especially painful for school officials because this is the first year in which it has been possible to compare the results, over time, for a given class. In the past, as test scores rose or fell, administrators have pointed

The latest 11th-grade scores were the worst of the four Telstar classes that have taken the MEA test. Moreover, the cumulative score for these four classes is lower than the state average of all high school seniors in Maine, as far as MEA scores.

It does not appear that this poor performance can be attributed to financial constraints. According to Mr. Davis, the 1987-88 school year, SAD #44 as a whole spent slightly more money per pupil than the average school district in Maine. And district taxpayers supported their school system, spending out more money for education (in terms of their property valuation) than did the average taxpayer in the state.

ing requirements for the village.]

Mr. Brown brought up the case of a prospective buyer for the former Miller's Inn, on Main Street (now the Holiday House). "Remember when the guy came in and wanted to put a little gas station in the Miller's Inn? I thought that was a pretty good thing." But, because the Site Plan Ordinance called for more parking spaces along the curb—the plan never got off the ground and the property was not sold until recently. "It is now a bed and breakfast."

Former Planning Board member Margaret Hand said she hopes to get answers to these questions from a representative of the paper company who has agreed to attend tonight's meeting.

"I'm still gathering the facts," Mr. Bean said. "It's not a case that's cut and dried. I just want to find out if they are still filling in the wetland."

W'stock Planning Board will discuss clearcutting

A large forest clearing in Woodstock, which has raised concern among a number of residents, will be discussed at this evening's (Wednesday) meeting of the town planning board.

Nearly 1,000 acres of land located along Black Brook, between Rte. 26 and the County Road, is being harvested by Boise-Cascade.

The cutting appears to be completely legal, and it has the support of some residents. Other questions have been raised about its impact on the brook, the use of herbicides to destroy hardwood growth, and about the company's long-term plans for Spruce Mountain—most of which it owns—and Buck Ledge.

Planning Board Chairman Margaret Hand said she hopes to get answers to these questions from a representative of the paper company who has agreed to attend tonight's meeting.

much less turnover of people using the building.

Board member Don Feeney suggested that a longer-term solution would require the construction of a garage or of site parking lot. In the short term the Planning Board should use its discretion authority and grant variances where it sees fit, he said.

Code Enforcement Officer Sam Timberlake said the board should consider each project subjectively, as well as objectively. Parking requirements for an office or apartment will be much less than for a store, because there will be a subject with a greater need.

The ad hoc committee was set up in response to a parents' petition to make phys ed a pass/fail course.

Realizing that the petitioners were concerned with the possibility of poor grades in gym class keeping an otherwise qualified student from making the honor roll, the ad hoc committee decided to suggest to the board that it review the criteria for honor roll status.

Committee votes to keep phys ed a graded course

The ad hoc committee appointed by the SAD #44 Board of Directors to look at the question of whether or not to keep physical education as a graded subject met last Tuesday and voted, 18-1, to recommend keeping the phys ed class as a subject with a grade.

DEP investigating allegation that Upton officials filled wetland

The state Department of Environmental Protection is looking into allegations that the Town of Upton has been filling in wetlands.

DEP staffer Greg Bean was scheduled to meet with town officials this week to get to the bottom of the story. "I'm not accusing the Town of anything," Mr. Bean told The Citizen. "This is an alleged violation."

The allegation was brought by Bill Belanger, a citizen member of the town's environmental committee, to the DEP allegedly being filled. The area that is allegedly being filled is owned by town officials measures 13 acres, according to Mr. Bean. (The DEP has jurisdiction over wetlands of less than 10 acres.)

According to Mr. Bean, his preliminary findings have shown that there is filling going on. However, town officials have claimed that what appears to be intentional filling is, in fact, a result of soil being washed over the edge while canoeists paddle on the Rangeley Lakes.

Andover selectmen tackle barking dogs, foamy brook, new camp

At the end of the new school year, Thursday night, Andover selectmen's meetings, on Sept. 14, subjects ranged from unrestrained and barking dogs to the presence of foam on Black Brook.

Assured by the Department of Environmental Protection that the foam is the result of natural algae, the selectmen questioned the department's method of testing as no samples were gathered.

Despite the existing leash law, there have been many complaints to the town about unrestrained and barking dogs, as well as the inaction of the dog officer and residents' inability to reach him by phone.

Bids are going to be accepted for the updating of town tax maps as the cost of new ones is prohibitive.

A two-acre leased lot of tree-growth protection land was discussed, as a camp has been constructed on the site by Willard and his wife. A building permit which was filed but not issued to be approved by the proper authorities. It was decided by the selectmen that back taxes would have to be adjusted to conform with the land's new status as no longer being under tree growth protection, and that subsequent penalties may have been incurred.

Planning Board

In fact, the board did grant a variance on parking to Ginger and Gene Kelly on their Main Street Place office building earlier in the evening. The Kellys had asked for permission to add a parking lot in the building, which would increase the number of parking spaces required to 19. Since the property will only accommodate 16 spaces, the property was short three spaces. The board decided to approve the application, however, by granting a variance for five spaces.

A provision in the approval motion requires a set aside of the spaces areas as front lot parking for the owners of Dan Brooks and calls for the Kellys to return the matter to the board if and when the lease for those spaces expires. The vote to approve the variance and the application was 7-0. Alternate member Frank Vogt was given a seat on the board to replace Donna Remington, who recently resigned.

The board also voted 7-0 to approve a subdivision by Steve Keane, on Vernon Street.

The board also approved a site plan permit for Dan and Nancy Grover for a 5,000-square-foot unit off Rte. 2, West Bethel. This will be an expansion of the family's gun boring factory in Oxford. Mr. Grover said he hopes to begin construction right away.

Also at a previous vote the board approved an application by Ed Kennett to turn his home on the Sunday River Road into a bed and breakfast establishment with three guest rooms.

The test report returned to the school district also provides "comparison score bands," which show the range of scores for school districts across the state with similar social and economic characteristics.

Beginning in 1989 it also became possible to compare the scores for a given class of students at different stages in their educational career. Eighth-graders who took the test in the 1988-89 school year also took it again as 11th-graders in 1989-90. This class is the first to have taken the test twice, but since it is not yet possible to compare the performance trends for 8th- and 11th-grade classes.

Test results typically fluctuate from year to year as different classes pass through the school system. Educational administrators caution against drawing large conclusions from these yearly variations. The comparison of a single class over time, however, which is now possible for 8th- and 11th-graders, provides a meaningful and valid way in assessing the effectiveness of our educational programs," according to Eve Bither, commissioner of the State Department of Education and Cultural Services.

SQUARE DANCE SATURDAY

Molockett Mixers will hold a mainstream-mainstream plus square dance on Saturday, Sept. 23 from 8:11 p.m. at the Mountain Valley High School (formerly Rumford Jr./Sr. High). Terry Campbell will be the caller and Wally Weeks cue of the rounds.

News from the Bethel Area Health Center

The Bethel Area Health Center will host a non-fasting cholesterol screening clinic on Wednesday, Sept. 27, 1-5 p.m. To avoid delay at the time of screening, it is recommended that individuals call or stop by the Health Center to set up an appointment time.

High blood cholesterol is common in people who have coronary heart disease. Men are at higher risk for heart disease than women. Other risk factors include smoking, diabetes, high blood pressure, obesity and a family history of heart disease.

Cholesterol screening is done to identify people with high blood cholesterol levels and to provide information referred to their family physician for further testing and treatment, if appropriate.

At this screening, blood pressure will also be checked. Individuals with high blood pressure will be referred for follow-up with their family physician.

Cholesterol can be affected by diet. Information about ways to cut down on cholesterol in the diet will be discussed with our physician.

Smoking is a cause of heart disease and information about smoking cessation programs will be available.

Heart disease can be hereditary. A person is more likely to develop heart disease if he or she has a close family member who has had a heart attack.

Everyone will receive a copy of their cholesterol level.

It is important to fast prior to this test. There will be a $4 charge to cover the costs of the service. For more information, and to schedule an appointment for the cholesterol screening clinic, call 824-2193.

Local artist presents views of life in Bethel

Local artist Janice Kaufman will open a show of paintings of the Bethel area entitled "Where We Live," at the Owen Gallery on the Gould Academy campus in Bethel. The show starts Friday, Sept. 29, from 6 p.m. Refreshments will be served at the opening and the public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Kaufman has a special feel for the area and local residents may have seen her on one of her extended walks around town, which provide much of the inspiration for her work. Her paintings have appeared in as diverse places as Duke University (in North Carolina), the National Social Hall of Fame and on covers of "New Hampshire Times." She recently described the evolution of her painting style in her own words:

"Bethel, with its varied traditional architecture, magnificent trees and surrounding mountains, makes a strong impression on someone coming for the first time to live in this kind of environment. I was an art major in college, and I wanted to do what I could do, and I decided—driving here two years ago—how the look of things and town living itself would impact on my work."

"As a painter whose primary tool is a realistic technique, I tend to work directly from my environment. While living in New York City I did large figure paintings, often depicting the culture and Sunday River Inn in the summer. This included figure painting to focus on sports images for several years, necessitating my presence at baseball games at Yankee Stadium, track meets at Madison Square Garden and events at the skating rinks and parks of the city."

"These years of drawing and painting people led to portrait work, which I have been doing for 10 years. The challenge of portrait work requires posing the sitter, the backgrounds, the lighting, the choice of the facts of the case (or face) and the need of the painter to deal with an interesting composition. While I prefer the commissions that allow me some imaginative play, I enjoy every portrait. There is a thrill in the presence of the person I feel emerging. I feel a great sense of connection to each subject as I am working."

"When I left New York to live in northern Maine, once again my surroundings gave direction to my work. While continuing to do portraits, I found irresistible the large animals all around me—the horse and dairy cows—while the presence of the landscape spoke to me like an insistent voice in the background. I have always been cautious approaching landscape; I consider it to be the ultimate challenge for the painter and painter's palette as being the underlying basis of our experience of most of the best abstract art. It requires the most complete sets of skills as well as a highly developed feel for earth, sky, light and space. I tend to do landscape more in terms of details than the whole. This is the way I experience life at this point—I see clearly some bits, but I am still waiting for the whole picture to come into focus. While waiting, I derive great

Elderhostel season begins at Sunday River Inn

Sunday River Inn in Newry began its seventh year of Elderhostel programs last week with the arrival of hostellers from throughout the country. Courses being offered include stained glass, geology and previous fibers.

In addition to attending classes and field trips, the participants are looking forward to sightseeing throughout the area to enjoy the coming of autumn to the western mountains.

Steve and Peggy Wright, owners and managers of Sunday River Inn, became interested in Elderhostel in 1983. Steve, a native of Eden, Bethel, reflected upon her first Elderhostel experience in Vermont and suggested that they look into the program.

The regional coordinator for Elderhostel was searching for additional sites to meet a growing participant demand and agreed that the Wrights and Sunday River Inn were ideal at other sites were available.

September of 1983 the Wrights hosted their first courses and have continued to be deeply involved with Elderhostel ever since, hosting as many as 14 program weeks each year.

In addition to hosting programs, Mr. Wright works for the Elderhostel office conducting inspections of other campus programs. He and his wife have helped get Elderhostel courses started at other sites across the country.

This includes the first course ever held at the Gould Academy in September of 1983.

Steve and Peggy Wright are looking forward to sightseeing here two years ago—how the look of things and town living itself would impact on my work.

satisfaction from portraying those things I do see and enjoy.

"In Bethel these two years, I've been walking and looking and meeting people and a lot of what I've seen is in the group of paintings that will be shown at the Owen Gallery at Gould Academy opening Sept. 29. For me this is an unusual experience, to show a group of paintings representing some of my reflections on a place and a community, to that community.

"I call this show 'Where We Live.' The works combine images of people, landscape, animals and objects, resulting in a statement about place that has as much to do with dream and fantasy as with everyday reality."

The "Where We Live" show will run from Sept. 29 to Oct. 23. The Owen Gallery is open from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. on weekdays; weekends by appointment.

Student leadership discussed by leaders from Gould and Telstar

Meeting for a four-day leadership workshop Sept. 14, Telstar and Gould student leaders continued the cooperative effort begun by the two schools last year. The program was planned by faculty and students from the schools and staff at National Training Laboratories (NTL), the Bethel centered organization internationally recognized for its experience-based learning programs.

The 39 students were chosen by virtue of being student council members, National Honor Society inductees, farm products committee participants. They live in Gehring dormitory for four days, breaking into four core groups to discuss issues critical to student leadership within each school as well as relations between the two schools. Students' reactions to the experience have been overwhelmingly positive and the workshop was characterized by a spirit of cooperation and friendliness.

Whereas last year's main focus was on improving relations between Gould and Telstar, this year's discussions centered around developing leadership within each of the schools. Student involvement emerged as the main theme in all of the groups and the students worked on strategies to engage more of their fellow students in social and educational projects.

The core groups consisted of students and faculty from both schools. Each group was assisted by an NTL staff person who acted as a facilitator. Each core group has made plans to meet at the year goes on to continue the work started in the workshop. In addition, these independent groups will meet during a follow-up workshop in January led by an NTL staff member. It is hoped that this addition to the program will help refocus and revitalize participating students and faculty at the mid-year.

Tangible results of last year's leadership workshop have included "exchange-for-a-day" programs between the two schools, all-school assembly presentations, and greater focus on other schools and a general increase in informal student visits at each school.

Core group 1 was led by Janet Newbury of NTL and teachers Mike Delahanty of Telstar and Lauren Head of Gould. Students were Telstar leaders Aaron Bean, Carrie Olson, Noelle Gauthier and Cindy Pifield and Gould students Blair Wood, Brett White, Jay Walker, Kate Chester and Marty Hock.

Ridge Rival of NTL led core group 2, with help from teachers Sherry Higgins of Telstar and Steve Sanborn of Gould. Students were Telstar leaders Josh Chamberlain, Jennifer Stowell, Amy Brindley, Meredith Otten, Gena Morgan and Nathan Emery and Gould students Jacques Perreault, Matt Newell, Alice Colby, and Mark Knasek.

Group 3 consisted of NTL's Don Cordero and Gould staff member Lorenzo Baker, Telstar students Kristen Powell, Ryan Wheeler, Sola Buchanan, Dawn Davis, Kris Delano and Gould students Jen Tabor, Laura Hunter, Tom Penna, Tom Landers and Paul Koubek.

Group 4 was composed of Marylyn Mizrahi and teacher Blake Johnson of Gould and Beth LaVale of Telstar. Telstar students Robert Hard, Wendy Faulkner, Nathan Misocchi, Scott Higgins and Gould students Heidi Van Winkle, Monika Burk, Jill Shapiro, Lee Roberto, Oren Murphy and Kevin Davis.

Workshop will focus on students' environments

A large segment of the "Students Are Special" conference, to be held Monday, Oct. 2, at Telstar Regional High School, is devoted to helping teachers and other community members learn how to best provide support for students who are emotionally at risk. The workshop schedule includes sessions devoted to such topics as rape, chemical abuse, pre-judice, adolescent depression and suicide, child abuse, poverty and at-risk parents. Another important conference is to provide information that will assist SAD #4 schools and communities to find ways of bringing hope and a fresh vision of the future to local young people.

The first concurrent session begins at 9 a.m. The presenters include Paul Marcolin, Outward Bound consultant, who will run a workshop on "Reality Therapy and Behavior Management." That particular topic will be continued to a second session beginning at 11 a.m.

Charles Veilleux, from Tri-County Mental Health, will do a session on the "Substance-Using Student in the Classroom." Other presenters range from Debra Demski, with REACH, to Sharon Rice and Michael Lahti, from DECS, "Dealing with Affected Families Effectively."

The second concurrent session will begin at 11 a.m. Topics include "Social Development in the Schools" with David Walton and Lynn Bocchetti, elementary guidance counselors in SAD #4. Another session will deal with the stepfamily and its special needs and will be presented by Wendy Pollock, from the University of Maine Cooperative Extension Service.

Following lunch, which is scheduled between 12 and 1 p.m., the third concurrent session will begin and will deal with the identification of victims of child abuse and how to effect intervention. Another will explain the use of student assistant teams and how to create them.

There are 45 one-hour sessions planned for the conference. Anyone who is interested in any of the sessions described above, or the many others that are part of Students at Risk Workshop, can participate by registering on Oct. 2 in the cafeteria area at Telstar Regional High School, between 7:45 a.m. and 8:15 a.m.

The conference is open to the general public and is free of charge. Non-residents may register through Sept. 22 for $20 and for $25 afterwards. Call the Adult and Community Education Department at 824-2780 for registration information. There is a $3 charge for lunch, which is an available option.

The day was beautiful and the pond held a story. The ducks floated on the water, the leaves seemed suspended in this air. I looked out at the sunlight that fell like a slanting shower of luminous green rain through the green leaves. A cloud then drifted across the sun for a few minutes.

My phone rang. "Would you like to go for a ride on the flat boat?" the voice asked.

Of course I said "Yes."

The boat was narrow and our chairs, the dog, quickly chose a place, the "captain" started the motor and we were off up the pond toward the bridge and the dam.

We first noticed some ducks sunning themselves on a rock, then one of the girls saw fish swimming, as she looked down from where she stood. I noticed pine-wheels of whirling beetles acting like tiny outboards gone crazy.

Along shore were dark, fantastic rocks, rising here and there from the water to the land, which made the scene even more mysterious.

The growth of weeds hemmed us in for a time. The effect on the pond in their midst looked like a broken mirror with fragments widely scattered over vines reflecting the full blaze of the sun.

The brilliant white of the canoe birches mingled with the other woods along the way.

A motor boat from a nearby cottage came out with a friend to speak to us. He had his camera and took pictures. A little later he shared them with us. I keep mine here on my table where I can see it and think of the lovely experience and feel gratified to my neighbor for the photograph and the boat ride.

At the Holls, on Sunday, the family was gathered at the farm—Robert, of Windham, Anna of Bethel and David of Norway, joined them for the day.

THIS LITTLE PIGGY WENT TO SCHOOL—Month-old Petunia the Pig had a good time with the kids in Mrs. Coolidge's 2nd Grade at Ethel Bisbee School last Tuesday. The piglet was invited to class because the students are cut-really studying E.B. White's "Charlotte's Web," with the famous pig Wilbur—"Some Pig," as his friend Charlotte said. Young Petunia belongs to Brenda Blasdel (upper right), of Northwest Bethel.

Just got home from Lewiston where I have been since Sunday when my daughter and granddaughters came and took me home with them. A lovely morning, with lots of small clouds in the sky, but lots of sunshine also—and that makes for a lovely day, I hope.

Went to North Bridgton last Thursday to see the doctor for my back as usual. Stopped at store on the way home to do an errand. Also stopped at the store for the groceries, as usual, and doing other errands that needed doing. We were planning to go out in the evening so didn't do too much during the day. A sign we are getting older, I guess. We went to Oxford for the Variety Show that was put on to benefit the Ponoma Grange, but not too many folks turned out for the show. They didn't know what they missed! I am still going to all to see.

Lots of good music as well as comedy skits, and Russell spoke one of his funny pieces that bring lots of laughs. We had a good time and lots of folks there won prizes that were drawn between acts. I was sorry not to see a larger crowd there.

Saturday was a busy day for me for awhile. Russell brought in some beans for me to can. Put 22 pints before the day was over and we had some left so have a good quantity for this coming winter. Peggy went to Oxford for the dance in the evening. Russell went with her but I stayed home and kept busy by myself.

I knew I was going to Lewiston on Sunday but wanted to get the shell beans put up before I went so Russell started picking early Sunday morning and I went to shelling as soon as he brought in a handful of them. Wynona came between 9 and 9:30 and they helped shell beans. Nona helped pick the rest of them and then helped shell. There were here enough and had plenty of nice fresh vegetables to eat. After the beans were put into containers to freeze we headed for Lewiston as Wynona had things that needed doing before the week began.

I babysat for the girls some and helped where I could. Michael was gone on a conference to Mt. Washington Hotel, in New Hampshire, and Nona doesn't like to do anything while Michael is away. She sleeps too heavily, I guess, and likes to nap. Wynona also is in the house. I enjoyed my time with the girls and guess they did with me also as Kariann especially told everyone we met that I was her Nana.

Gives one a feeling they are loved—and we all need that once in a while.

Kariann has told her teachers that I make some of her dresses and they think they are pretty so told her yesterday when I was there that she was supposed to come. I said I would make some pretty dresses also. She did say that her mother told her I had to make her one first. Guess I will be busy as usual.

Russell said that Laura and Bernard Hutchins, from East Andover, were here last night and brought us some apples. In return he gave them some vegetables from the garden that we didn't think we would need. A good swap I call it. He was busy making applesauce this morning while I got home. A smelly good to have apples cooking as I walked in the door to freeze it and then it is ready when we want it.

Lawrence and Grace have gotten their wood in for the winter. They have worked on it for awhile to get it all accomplished but it is always good to have it all in the cellar and ready for cold weather. He split some that Peggy had and, as luck would have it, the day he split it, Myrna and her husband Whitey came and they help get the job done in a hurry.

We have now harvested all harvested and plants pulled but there is a lot left to do, so we won't be getting into mischief for a while.

I want to mention that there will be a Variety Show at Franklin Grange Hall in Bryant Pond on Sept. 25, so mark your calendar and be sure to come. It will be a good one, as it was at Oxford, and we want a half full, so get ready and remember the date to come enjoy yourself. It will be a great night, so you can sleep later on Saturday morning; come for a good time.

Mary wanted me to tell everyone that the ramp for the West Paris Grange Hall is done, so anyone in a wheelchair can get into the hall. With the chair lift inside, that makes it possible to get handicapped people in and out easily.

It was a busy day for me to get all the beans put up before I went to Rumford to help with the beans. I am still going to all to see.

Lots of good music as well as comedy skits, and Russell spoke one of his funny pieces that bring lots of laughs. We had a good time and lots of folks there won prizes that were drawn between acts. I was sorry not to see a larger crowd there.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Over 50 members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society attended the 24th annual meeting held on Sept. 7 in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House with vice-president Jane Hosterman presiding in the absence of the president, Marvin Ouwinga.

During the business portion of the meeting Mrs. Hosterman thanked everyone who had made Sudbury Canada Days on Aug. 12 a success despite the rainy weather. A report from the Nominating Committee headed by Lynda Chouler with Betty Perkins and Ronald Stevens, vice-chair; president, Marvin Ouwinga; vice-chair, Jane Hosterman; secretary and clerk of trustees, Kenneth Bohr; treasurer, Margaret Joy Tibbets; trustees, for three years, Margaret Davis and Sylvia Wright. This slate was approved by the membership.

Mrs. Hosterman paid tribute to Lynda Chouler for her year as a trustee. She announced that the next meeting of the Society would be held on Oct. 12 and feature University of Maine at Farmington professor Wesley Nairn, who will make a slide presentation entitled "Thomas Church, Frederick Cole, and the American Dream." This presentation is funded in part by a grant from the Manuscriptes Council. The "Artifact of the Month" was announced as a copy of the Oxford County Directory for 1886-92, donated by Norris Biggs.

A life membership certificate was presented to Aline Dupont. Mrs. Hosterman briefly reviewed the record of the past year since the last annual meeting. It included very successful special events, Homecoming Day, "Christmas with the Masons," Heritage Day and Sudbury Canada Days, the addition of over 60 gifts of artifacts to the Society's collection, the addition of new members to the Society's rolls, the addition of nearly $7,000 to the Society's endowment from over 200 donors, the presentation of a microfilm cabinet to the family of E. Louise Lincoln, participation in the Norumbega project with the Bethel Library, publication of a book on the Bethel Cemetery, and the presentation of the Marjorie MacArthur Noll Award for outstanding volunteer service to Sudbury Vachon.

Mrs. Hosterman then presented seven honorary memberships to those selected for the Society's highest membership honor by the trustees at the 1989 Annual Meeting. To be considered for honorary membership one must be at least 75 years of age and have an outstanding record of service to the organization. The first certificates went to this year's winner of the Marjorie MacArthur Noll Volunteer Service Award, Barbara Herrick Brown. In presenting her with the 1989 award Society Director, Stanley Howe made the following statement: "The winner of this award for outstanding volunteer service is without doubt one of the Society's most active volunteers and boosters. She does all of this with a great deal of fanfare and with right pride. She has done all of this for the past 15 years. When I took over the administration of the Society in 1974, she was one of those who stepped forward and asked if we would like flowers for the museum. Of course I said "yes" and flowers we have had every season and for every occasion ever since. Beautifully and innovatively arranged, they have continued to be one of the great attractions of visitors to the Dr. Moses Mason House. I have people all the time tell us what beautiful flowers we have and how they always like to return to see what the arrangements are for this week. But she has done even more than this. She has kept tons of informed of the Society's needs and on a number of occasions has been responsible for the Society receiving a donation. She has also been a craft demonstrator from many years of dried flower arrangements. She has delivered two street programs at Society meetings with aplomb, sharing with us her rich memories of Bethel. No organization could have a more enthusiastic supporter than tonight's recipient, a great lady, Barbara Herrick Brown."

The Marjorie MacArthur Noll Volunteer Service Award was established in 1987 in honor of an outstanding volunteer by Mrs. Noll's family and friends and is announced at each annual meeting.

Other honorary members announced by Mrs. Hosterman included Julie B. Brown, also a life member, who has been active for many years on the Special Projects Committee as well as a generous donor of artifacts to the Society's collections and contributor to the endowment fund. Florence B. Hastings, also a life member, was recognized for many years as a guide in the museum and as a craft demonstrator at many historical society special events. She has also been a donor of artifacts to the Society's collections and a contributor to the endowment fund. E. Louise Lincoln, another life member, has been the Society's bookkeeper for over a decade and a generous contributor to the endowment fund. A former Society treasurer, she has served on the Endowment Campaign Committee. On her 70th birthday earlier this year, she was honored by her family by the presentation of a microfilm cabinet to the Society. Helen A. Morton, a benefactor member for a number of years, was also honored by her many contributions. She has served as a member of the Nominating Committee, as a member of the Art Committee, as a member of the Program Committee (now as a member), and as a guide in the days in the museum for 14 seasons. She has been involved in the Faye Taylor Memorial Art Show for many years and has been a generous donor to the Society's endowment campaigns. She has helped the Society in many other ways, too, according to Hosterman.

Marguerite Quinn, also a life member, was honored for her many contributions during the Society's early days. She was one of those who made the differences after Eva Bean's death in keeping the organization going. She was also on the planning committee for furnishing the Dr. Moses Mason House and has been a generous donor of artifacts and information to the Society as well. Mildred C. Stevens was honored for her long service as a member of the Art Committee and as a guide each Saturday in the museum for the past six years. She has also been a contributor to the Society's endowment fund.

Mrs. Hosterman thanked the Special Projects Committee for the success of the pollack supper that preceded the annual meeting and Barbara Herrick Brown, another always attractive centerpiece for the event.

Society Director Howe introduced the speaker for the evening, Gwilym Roberts, of Farmington, former dean of Arts and Humanities at the University of Maine at Farmington. Dean Roberts' topic for the evening was "Sources of Local History: The Routine and the Remarkable." He spoke of the extensive research he has conducted on Maine towns, particularly those of town meetings and school committee records.

He stressed the fact that there are often underappreciated sources for local historians for they provide numerous insights into the standards of particular communities and how they operated. He cited numerous examples from various Maine towns from the first half of the 19th century. From bidding off the poor to the lowest bidder to ridding the community of "undesirables," professor Roberts' speech at the home of his daughter, Geneva McCollum, teacher at Gould Academy were Margaret Northrop, Jerry Wir, Marion Zarzepold, Donald Fenney, James Northrop, Lucia Baker and Paul McGuire.

Births: Leah MacSwain, Terry D. Clemens, Jeffrey Lee Brown, Merle Ring, John Joseph Clark, Vicki Sundeen.

Deaths: Cora G. Bennett, George H. Brown, Arthur L. Bonney.

20 Years Ago: Roman Catholic church services moved from Odessa Hall to the new Our Lady of the Snows Church. State Police and detectives harvested and destroyed about 2,000 marijuana plants growing wild on a farm in the Bethel area. Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, Geneva McCollum. New teachers at Gould Academy were Margaret Northrop, Jerry Wir, Marion Zarzepold, Lucia Baker and Paul McGuire.

Births: Leslie Michelle Bennett, Deaths: Llewelyn A. Buck, Archie C. Bell, Chestley H. Abbott.

30 Years Ago: Sewer lines were laid on Main Street in Bethel, consisting of 950 feet of 8-inch concrete pipe and three manholes of cement block construction.

The new building occupied by the Western Auto store, on the Locke Mists Road, was opened for business. The 50x60-foot structure was constructed by Harold Rolfe and crew (now the site of the Gospel Center).

Deaths: Leslie Coburn, Anna Ray.

40 Years Ago: Grading was nearly completed on the proposed playground at the Bethel School. Sheep and cattle moose were all seen running around the village. The Bethel School Survey Committee recommended construction of a four-room school house. "Sleuth," the bloodhound owned by Albert Grover and Roderick McMillin, was taken to Skowhegan to search for an escaped prisoner.

CPS Discoveries

By Tammy Mills

Crescent Park students and teachers have spent the first week of school getting to know each other and making discoveries about their learning.

Shirley Merrill and Brenda Wight's 3rd Grade classes took a field trip to Grafwood Woods and Park in Thomaston on Aug. 14. This is the fourth year the students have had this wonderful opportunity to hike and view some of the scenic sights in Newry. It will give them a strong background for when they study environments, science and social studies. It is important that students have firsthand experiences with concepts they will be reading, writing and learning about.

Mrs. Merrill's class is keeping busy doing science activities and finished testing in math and spelling. Reading screening will continue. Mrs. Merrill took their picture the first day of school and they each used it in a poster telling about themselves. Welcome to Jeff Brough and Anna Howard, new students to CPS.

Reading is off to a great start in Mrs. O'Meara's room. Time is spent every day silently reading books from the classroom shelf or silent reading with students. Students are reading a record of all the books they finish. Books on the library shelf hold books by authors Peggy Parrish, Marjorie Weinman Shaem, Patricia Reilly Giff and others.

Reading groups are enjoying "The Whipping Boy" by Sid Fleischman, "Amelia Bedelia" by Peggy Parrish and "Cam Jansen and the Mystery of the Dinosaur Bones" by David Adler.

The theme of fall is enjoyed by the students. Students have explored all the traditional influences and how they have changed. They have also been bringing in Maine artifacts. They have collected various rocks, books, a mouse house, a stuffed bear and deer, maps, pictures of moose and puffins, and wood that has been gnawed by a beaver. Soon all of the 4th Grades will be going to the Moose coast.

Please don't miss our annual craft fair. Again, this event will be held at Telstar. This year, the fair will be held Saturday, Oct. 14. Please come and support our students to help them earn money for special projects.

We have taken soil and water samples, sketched and are planning a trip to Rumford and Lewiston to observe the impact of the mills, the historic districts and the canal system. We are learning how to write a hypothesis and experiment results.

Reading also comprises a large part of our day. We spend time silent reading and sharing books as a class. Time is also spent in groups reading "The Whipping Boy" by Sid Fleischman, "James and the Giant Peach" by Roald Dahl, "Anastasia Krupnik" series by Lois Lowry, and "The Secret Garden" by Frances Hodgson Burnett.

Mrs. Wheeler's 5th Grade wishes to welcome Erica Morris, from Louisiana. They hope she doesn't get too cold here. They have also been integrating subject areas by adopting trees. Each 5th-grader has a tree with which he/she does measuring, art, science, reading, writing and writing activities.

Their reading program is based on literature and gets rave reviews from the students who are enjoying whole books. Some of their favorite titles include "Tuck Everlasting" by Natalie Babbitt, "The Great Gilly Hopkins" by Katherine Paterson and "Roll of Thunder Hear My Cry" by Mildred Taylor.

Mrs. Gilbert's 4th-graders are also studying Maine. They have learned about the traditional influences and how they have changed. They have also been bringing in Maine artifacts. They have collected various rocks, books, a mouse house, a stuffed bear and deer, maps, pictures of moose and puffins, and wood that has been gnawed by a beaver. Banker predicts slow but steady growth for Maine's economy

Leon Bien, a senior vice president of Key Bank, spoke to members and guests of the Oxford Hills Rotary Club on the state of the national and local economies at the club's weekly breakfast meeting.

Mr. Bien said Maine's economy had been growing at a 4 to 5 percent annual rate, somewhat ahead of much of the rest of the United States. There is now a slowdown in the economy, he said, but not on the order of 2 to 3 percent per year, he predicted. He felt that there would not be a recession, but there would be a long period of slow, steady growth.

Mr. Bien predicted inflation will continue to hold at its present 4-1/2 percent level with unemployment holding at 5-1/2 percent. "Our period of phenomenal growth has been tempered," the banker said, "with some sections of the economy lagging in the overall picture." Mr. Bien went on to say that the economy is sluggish to begin with, the housing market, particularly condominium development, and the domestic car industry.

In Maine, Mr. Bien foresees continued strength in the service industries and the ship and paper industries, with tourism also doing well, but not growing as rapidly as in previous periods. Interest rates will continue to be predicted, with the prime rate dropping slightly below the present 10% percent.

"In the 1990s, we will have to decide whether or not to push free trade and live with the effects that will have on certain sections of the business community, or to protect domestic industry through a protectionist opportunity that we will be able to take advantage of while protectionism may mean slower growth," Mr. Bien concluded.

Staffing the facility will be office manager Paul Broch and consultant Mary Lou Cram. They can be reached by telephoning 786-6051. The agency will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

General manager of the travel division of McQuade Enterprises is Michele McQuade-Kelley.

McQuade Enterprises operates travel agencies in Rumford (Rumford Travel Service), Farmington (Farmington Travel Service) and Waterville (Waterville Travel Service) as well as the Bates and Bates and Bates locations.

Jim Delamater, president and chief executive officer of Bethel Bancorp, the parent company of Bethel Savings Bank FSB, announced that the first quarter ended June 30, 1989, showed a net income of $20,703, or $3.44 per share.

He added, "The demand for community bank services seems to be on the upswing. The ability of a local bank to deliver personal service on a timely basis is important to customers."

27 die on roads in August

The Bureau of Safety reports that 27 people died on highway roads in August, the most of any month so far this year. Eight of the fatalities involved alcohol.

According to highway safety experts, higher fatalities are not unusual during a summer month because of the increases in traffic Maine traditionally experiences throughout the season.

The report further explained that August's fatalities included two pedestrians and six motorcyclists. Only two of the 18 people killed in passenger vehicles were using safety belts.

The 1989 highway fatalities through August 11, 1989, is 118, less than the five-year average of 149. In 1988, 164 fatalities occurred during the same period.

Retired admiral to speak on cruise missile question

Should Mainers vote on Nov. 7 to bar the testing of cruise missiles over the state?

That topic will be addressed on Wednesday, Sept. 20, at Bates College, by one of the most prominent critics of U.S. missile testing and environmental policies.

Ret. Admiral Eugene J. Carroll Jr., U.S. Navy (ret.), will discuss the cruise-missile referendum at 7:30 p.m. at the Olin Arts Center Concert Hall. His talk, entitled "Arms Control begins at Home," is the first event in the 1989-90 Bates Lecture Series. It is open to the public at no charge.

Adm. Carroll is director of the Center for Defense Information in Washington D.C. A veteran of 30 years military service, he holds senior command positions in the top command positions in the U.S. Navy.

He was the first naval officer to serve as director of U.S. military operations in Europe and the Middle East, and as assistant deputy chief of naval operations for plans, policy and operations, he assisted in planning for conventional and Advanced EMT Bill Severance.

Following successful course completion, those wishing to become Maine First Responders are invited to attend a First Responder course to be held, an LAA to EMT Bridge Course will then be offered in the winter of 1990.

Anyone interested in either of these courses or in becoming a Stoneham Rescue volunteer, should call Bill Severance, at 928-2673, as soon as possible.

It will be fully operational when classes begin Sept. 6.

The course is designed primarily for those interested in working with an ambulance service but may also help health care workers, police, fire departments and other areas where medical emergencies may occur.

It is hoped that classes will begin on Monday, Oct. 16, and will continue on Monday and Thursday
